Fund manager commentary

30 June 2020

Major stockmarkets experienced a remarkable rebound during the second quarter of 2020 following the steep declines seen during the onset of the coronavirus pandemic. Leading global indices returned around 20% over the period. An extraordinary level of central bank stimulus and government support in the worlds major economies came to the aid of many consumers and businesses. The months of April and May saw particularly strong stockmarket returns, prompting the gradual re-opening of economies. Despite this the harsh economic reality of the coronavirus pandemic has emerged with consensus forecast now expecting the global economy to contract by -3.7% year-on-year in 2020 as measured by Gross Domestic Product (GDP).

UK equities recovered with local indices rising by around 10%. Gains were led by more domestically focused medium-sized and smaller companies. US stockmarkets surged as Technology stocks led the way, similarly European stockmarkets rallied in the second quarter due to optimism that the coronavirus pandemic was under control. UK commercial property capital values fell according to property consultant CBRE. It is still too early to predict the full impact of COVID-19 on the UK real estate market. UK corporate bonds delivered solid returns as credit spreads tightened over the quarter, UK government bonds (gilts) also generated positive performance. International corporate bonds rallied well having sold off sharply towards the end of the previous quarter.

The M&G Treasury & Investment Office (T&IO) outlook is cautious as global economic growth is likely to be much lower in 2020.
